ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Study tours by delegations of experts from borrower countries are a necessary and valuable component of activities financed by money from World Bank loans. Under the most recent phase of services provided by the Bureau of International Labor Affairs in the U.S. Department of Labor to the Hungarian Ministry of Labor, two study tours took place under component B1 of Terms of Reference 2--Labor Market Analyses in the Human Resources Project.

These study tours involve a great deal of planning, cooperation, and good faith effort on the part of many individuals and groups.

From the U.S. Department of Labor, assistance was administered by Ambassador John Ferch in the Bureau of International Labor Affairs and his associates Jim Perlmutter, Michael McManus, and Hank Guzda. Elizabeth Taylor of the Bureau of Labor Statistics also helped to organize activities. Hank Guzda deserves special thanks for the care and attention he gave to many planning details.

Here at the W. E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research, the Executive Director, Dr. Randall Eberts together with nearly all of my colleagues and the staff of the Institute had great input in making the study tours a great success.

At Human Resources Development Canada, Dr. Ging Wong hosted guests from Hungary and organized a series of useful and relevant presentations.

The pages of this report list many of the individuals who made presentations to and shared information with visitors from Hungary. I thank each for their contributions. Finally, thank you to the many who are not named in this summary but who helped to make the study tours successful.

1. INTRODUCTION

Study tours by delegations of experts from borrower countries are a necessary and valuable component of activities financed by money from World Bank loans. Under the most recent phase of services provided by the Bureau of International Labor Affairs in the U.S. Department of Labor to the Hungarian Ministry of Labor, two study tours took place under component B1 of Terms of Reference 2--Labor Market Analyses in the Human Resources Project.

The W. E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research served as a sub-contractor to the U.S. Department of Labor providing technical assistance to the Hungarian Ministry of Labor to develop a system for monitoring effectiveness of active labor programs and using that information for planning and budget allocation. The Upjohn Institute was also the prime organizer of the two study tours summarized here which took place in 1995 and 1996.

2. STUDY TOUR 1:
   MEASURING EMPLOYMENT ACTIVITY AND POLICY PERFORMANCE

The first study tour took place in June 1995. Study tour visits were made to Canada and the United States. Details of this study tour appear in Appendix A to this report.

The study tour was organized to inform the Hungarians about methods for seasonal adjustment of labor force time series data and about interpreting and using information from performance monitoring of employment and training programs.

Each of the Hungarian participants in the study tour had a good knowledge of English. The three participants from the Hungarian National Labor Center were:

Mr. George Lazar, Head, Labor Market Information and Analysis Department
Ms. Judit Szekely, Senior Analyst
Mr. Oliver Demko, Analyst
The program for the June 4-11, 1995 visit to Ottawa, Canada was organized by Dr. Ging Wong of Human Resources Development Canada. Study tour activities included visits to Human Resources Development Canada and Statistics Canada.

The program for the June 11-17, 1995 visit to Kalamazoo, Michigan was organized by Dr. Christopher J. O’Leary of the W. E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research. Study tour activities included seminars at the Upjohn Institute, and visits to the Bureau of Labor Statistics regional office in Chicago, the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank, and the Michigan Employment Security Commission. The visit to Kalamazoo also included attendance at a conference on Unemployment Insurance which was jointly sponsored by the Upjohn Institute and the U.S. Department of Labor. The conference will result in a book entitled Unemployment Insurance in the United States: Analysis of Policy Issues (O’Leary and Wandner, forthcoming). The conference program is included in Appendix A.

Work done during the course of this study tour was included in the project report entitled Methods for Performance Based Management of Active Labor Programs in Hungary: An Adjustment Methodology for Performance Indicators and a Proposal for Budget Allocation (O’Leary, 1996b).

3. STUDY TOUR 2:
   DEVELOPING EMPLOYMENT POLICY MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS

The second study tour took place in April 1996. The study tour included visits to Washington, DC and Kalamazoo, Michigan. Details of this study tour appear in Appendix B to this report.

The study tour was organized to teach the Hungarians about performance monitoring of employment and training programs in the United States and the related management and planning systems for those programs. They also learned about the process of policy development and program refinement which involves internal government policy analysts and outside expert consultants.

Each of the five Hungarian participants in the study tour had some knowledge of English. Naturally, some were more reluctant to speak English than others. A Hungarian-English interpreter traveled with the group. The study tour participants included:

Dr. Csaba Halmos, Director General, Hungarian National Labor Center
Dr. Anna Matoricz, Head, Department of Labor Market Fund Management, Hungarian Ministry of Labor
Mr. Laszlo Zsila, General referent of employment affairs, Department of Economy and Employment, Ministry of Labor
Dr. János Simkó, Deputy Director, Borsod County Labor Center
Ms. Erika Kalman, Interpreter, Borsod County Labor Center

The April 16-21, 1996 visit in Washington, DC was organized by Mr. Hank Guzda of the Bureau of International Labor Affairs in the U.S. Department of Labor. Study tour activities included visits to the U.S. Department of Labor, the U.S. Employment Service, the Office of Management and Budget, the Bureau of Labor Statistics, and Abt Associates.

The April 21-25, 1996 visit in Kalamazoo, Michigan was organized by Dr. Christopher J. O'Leary of the W. E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research. Study tour activities included seminars at the Upjohn Institute, and visits to the Michigan Employment Security Commission, the Michigan Capitol, and the Michigan Jobs Commission.

Some results of activities on this study tour influenced the development of the report Planning Guidelines for Active Labor Programs in Hungary (O'Leary, 1996a).

Planning Employment and Training Programs in Hungary
April 1996 Study Tour

The April 1996 study tour in the United States is one activity in a project operated by the U.S. Department of Labor with World Bank funding. As part of the project, the W. E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research is providing services to the Hungarian Ministry of Labor to develop a system for monitoring effectiveness of active labor programs and using that information for planning and budget allocation.

On their tour the Hungarians are interested in learning about performance monitoring of employment and training programs in the United States and the related management and planning systems for those programs. They are also interested in the process of policy development and program refinement which involves internal government policy analysts and outside expert consultants.

Each of the five Hungarian participants in the study tour understands some English. Naturally, some are more reluctant to speak English than others. A Hungarian-English interpreter will be travelling with the group. The expected study tour participants are:

Dr. Csaba Halmos, Director General, Hungarian National Labor Center
Dr. Anna Matoricz, Head, Department of Labor Market Fund Management,
Hungarian Ministry of Labor
Mr. Laszlo Zsila, General referent of employment affairs, Department of Economy and Employment, Ministry of Labor
Dr. János Simkó, Deputy Director, Borsod County Labor Center
Ms. Erika Kalman, Interpreter, Borsod County Labor Center

The employment and training programs currently operating in Hungary are:

1. Unemployment Compensation
2. Placement Service
3. Retraining
4. Loans to the Unemployed for Small Business Start-up
5. Loans to Employers for Job Creation
6. Public Service Employment
7. Wage Subsidies for Hiring the Long Term Unemployed
8. Subsidies for Early Retirement

Brief Professional C.V.

Dr. Matoricz, Anna
Head of Department of Labor Market Fund Management
Ministry of Labor

I am an economist holding a degree of a university professor as well. For 2 years at the beginning of my career I was a professor at the Budapest University of Economics teaching at the planning faculty and taking part in the methodological development of long term social planning and forecasting. Later I worked for the Central Statistical Bureau in the team working on social indicators.

I have been working in labor management since 1980. As a head of department at the Ministry of Labor, I had an initiative in setting up a model of data collection monitoring the employment procedures of school leavers. I have also contributed to the methodology of short term regional labor market forecasts.

From 1984 during 6 years I was the director of the Information Center of the Ministry of Labor (today the National Employment Center). It was during this time that the Center began acting as the service organization of state employment exchange and the information and management center of UC payment.

I have been working in the Ministry of Labor again since 1990. As head of department I supervised the development of the evaluation and control system of active labor market programs and other assistance for the unemployed. In 1995 as a ministerial commissioner I was assigned to unify the 5 financial funds being allocated on unemployment assistance, manpower development and active labor measures, and to set up the organization managing this major financial source. I have been in charge of this organization since February of this year, the task of which is planning besides fund management.

• vice president
1987 - 1991 Borsod County Council
• department of economics, senior advisor
1991 -
• Borsod County Employment Center
• deputy director

The bulk of my professional activity was done in the field of regional management of human resources and unemployment. My main tasks have always been analyzing, planning and managing the regional (county, sub-regional) labor market conditions. I wrote papers on the social-economic conditions of Borsod county, on the methods of handling regional employment crises, and about operation of active labor market programs. The title of my doctoral thesis is "Conditions of regional management of human resources and chances of its development in Hungary."

In 1989 I took part on a short study tour in Sweden, France and the United States of America, where we studied methodology of regional labor market planning. From 1990 on in Borsod County we introduced pilot testing of the Swedish model of short term labor market forecast adopted to the Hungarian conditions. Between 1992 and 1995 I was the project coordinator of the project "Cost-effective monitoring and evaluation of the active labor market programs" funded by the World Bank. During this time I have worked together with Dr. Christopher J. O'Leary on the concepts and guidelines for monitoring the performance of active labor programs in Hungary. The full model was worked out in Borsod County in detail, and later it was successfully tested in three pilot counties. From 1994 this monitoring system has been implemented and used nationwide with coordination and guidance of the National Labor Center.
